Bryan Attacks Klan In National Politics In Beaumont Talk

Thrice Standard Bearer Refuses; However to Commit Himself in state Democratic Turmoil

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—In a signed statement here today William Jennings Bryan, assailed the presence of the Ku Klux Klan in national politics and "heartily endorsed" the stand taken by John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, "in the question of opposing the racial or religious test in politics by any denomination."

Agrees With Davis

"We are in the midst of a great national campaign and I consider it a grave mistake to allow any religious question to divert our attention from important economic issues which should form the basis of political division. I heartily agree with John W. Davis in the views he expressed on the presence of the Ku Klux Klan in a political issue."

"The real test upon which the people should vote this fall, should be economic, but relations to world peace, and any number of things relative to the lives of the working men who form the backbone of the democratic party."

Texas Comment

With reference to the present turmoil in the democratic party of Texas, and prospects for a "hoor" from the party by opponents of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, Bryan refused to comment.

"The Lone Star state can handle its own difficulties," he said. "The fact that Texas gave the largest majority in three campaigns, that I ever received from my state should indicate that," he said, smiling.

Bryan passed through here Friday night, enroute to Los Angeles, where he is to join his wife.

DAWES' FRIENDS PLEASED AT SPEECH IN LINCOLN

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 30.—Gretchen was expressed today by Charles G. Dawes, republican presidential candidate, a 12 report of the reception of his speech here last night on the agricultural problem. Members of the party pointed out that Dawes made no "wild promises" but simply declared there was a problem and that the republicans would do everything in their power to restore agriculture to prosperity.

Dawes departed from Lincoln at 11 p. m. after a speech in which he attacked Senator Robert M. La Follette, candidate for president on the independent ticket.

A large part of the La Follette stands behind the "red flag," he declared.

Airships May Release Bombs With Wireless

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Bombs launched from aeroplanes, directed by wireless, are under experiment by the British air force. Bomb-loaded planes are directed over prescribed courses, and their burdens are released at some predetermined spot; the machines being brought back safely to their starting place by wireless.

The experiments have been progressing for about two years, and it is understood that already great success has been attained.

EUROPE SIGNS PACT OF LONDON

Powers Sign Agreement Of August 16

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The protocols of the pact of London were signed by the diplomatic representatives of England, France, Germany, Belgium and other interested powers shortly after noon today.

The formal signatures today cemented the pact which was agreed upon and initiated on the last day of the London conference, August 16.

Official signatures on the pact were withheld until the parliament of both Germany and France had agreed to the pact. Germany's acceptance came yesterday after stormy debate in the reichstag.

Ambassador Kellogg of the United States was present at the conference today when the protocols were signed as the invited guest of the European nations. The United States did not sign the pact, as America was represented at the international conference only on an unofficial observer.

In the absence of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Sir Eyre Crow signed the pact on behalf of Great Britain.

The signing was without ceremony and was a mere formality. Among the provisions of the pact is one whereby Germany is to receive a $500,000,000 loan.

Walters, with a response by Frank J. Walters of Port Neches. Judge McCarter spoke to the conference on the duties of the lodge officers, while A. J. HERE'S BABY SAVED FROM PARENTS' PLOT TO BURY HIM ALIVE

They wanted to hide their secret—one they thought would disgrace their families—from the "hills back home." So Loren Person and his wife, both 19, of Kansas City, Mo., planned to smother their 13-day-old son Donald (above), and bury him alive. Deputy sheriffs, answering a mysterious telephone call, arrived at a field near Raytown, Mo., as the father was digging the grave. In a box nearby the baby lay sleeping. The couple, who had gone to Kansas City from Bates City, Mo., following their marriage three months ago, have confessed, authorities say.

The Lakeshore limited stopped at the beginning of a signal block system, with a broken air hose. Members of the crew say they set torpedoes to warn the Detroiters, which left Syracuse fifteen minutes later. Engineer Gibbons on the Detroit applied the emergency brakes, but the engine ploughed through the last car of the Lakeshore for a distance of 100 feet.

3 INDICTED IN ROBBERY CASE

Bills Returned Two Hours After Arrest

Three indictments on charges of highway robbery with firearms returned against F. D. Guiroux, P. S. Polakoff and E. J. Fennell by the 15th district court grand jury Thursday marks one of the quickest pieces of police work seen here in several months, police said today.

Wednesday night a negro musician alleged he was held up by five men in a car while returning with them from McFadden's beach where he had been hired to play, and $20 taken from him. Thursday morning the case was reported to Detective Rose. In 25 minutes the five were under arrest and in the next two hours had gone before the grand jury with the negro and submitted the evidence.

Friday the bills were returned. The three will be taken to Beaumont today by Deputy Sheriff John Foote, police officials announced this morning.

PLANE BACKFIRES, CADET IS KILLED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 30.—M. T. Glover, a cadet flyer from San Antonio, Texas, died here today from injuries sustained late yesterday when the motor of his airplane backfired while he was starting it. Glover and his flying partner, C. Pat Murphy, were preparing to leave here for Tuttle, thirty miles from here, when Glover was injured. Glover pulled the propeller to obtain compression.

Meeting with them are a score of Confederate veterans. For entertainment the grizzled warriors will join in old-fashioned dances tonight and most of them insist they could still "shake a supple foot."

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—This city recently has been terrorized by bandits, who are known for some particular bit of dress. One wears a police badge, another a silk hat and a third an opera cape. "Tune" bandits, wearing adhesive tape across the nose instead of masks, are also operating here.

FREE AFTER SERVING YEAR OF UNJUST TERM

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Erving Greenwald, who was sentenced to Atlanta penitentiary for seven and a half years through mistaken identity on a charge of forging postal money orders, and pardoned by President Coolidge, is back with his friends after serving a year for another crime. He passed the first two days of his liberty with John H. Goss of Washington, American aviation lieutenant, whom Greenwald rescued from a crushed plane during the war while Goss was training with a British air unit, of which Greenwald was a member.

DEFENSE DAY PLANS STARTED

Committee Named to Complete Program

A complete program for observance of Defense Day here next September 12 will be worked out next Tuesday night by a committee of seven appointed Friday night at a meeting held by representatives of about 20 military, commercial, social and civic organizations to discuss to what extent the national event will be celebrated here.

Speakers to Be Named

C. H. Fitz-Gerald was chairman of last night's meeting. Mayor J. P. Logan was appointed chairman of the committee to arrange the program and with him will be J. L. Dunn, E. V. Hay, Bert Hughes, A. A. Nicholson, Fitz-Gerald and Mrs. T. I. Welch of the Camp Fire girls.

Whether the program will be followed along with the outline submitted by those in charge of the Eighth Army area of the reserve corps with headquarters at San Antonio or will be along purely local lines will be entirely up to the committee.

The committee will decide Tuesday whether to accept offer of the Defense Day officials at Kelly Field, San Antonio, for use of one of several aeroplanes to use in the entertainment features. The question of a parade is also one to be worked out by the committees. Speakers will also be named.

U. S. WORLD FLYERS MAY TRY HOPPO

ABOARD THE U. S. S. RICHMOND, Aug. 30.—Weather permitting, the two American around the world aviators today were to attempt to gap the distance between Iquitos and here—a flight of 572 miles.

Prospects of the flight appeared good up until an early hour this morning. Skies had cleared along the course of the flight and reports were that the fliers would have perfect flying conditions.

The ships which are guarding the flight of the Americans have taken up their positions along the route.

SEN THREATENS TO BOMBARD CANTON

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Troops of Dr. Sun Yat Sen clashed with volunteer forces at Canton today and set fire to the city, destroying fifty shops, according to a Central News dispatch from Hong Kong.

Sun Yat Sen now threatens to bombard the city and has warned all foreigners in the city to remain indoors.

The trouble was the direct outcome of Dr. Sen's seizure of a consignment of 4,500 rifles, 4,400 mousers and a half million rounds of ammunition, consigned to the volunteer army, which Canton merchants had recently organized to protect their lives and property. The war lord permitted the munitions to be landed, but immediately seized them claiming the mobilization of the volunteer corps threatened his existence as president of South China.

$1 BILL COPIED IN RUG SEIZED AS COUNTERFEIT

NEW YORK.—The largest counterfeit United States dollar, a rug reproducing a silver certificate, with fine work portraits of Lincoln and Grant, was brought in on the liner King Alexander by a Greek merchant, living in Chicago. It was seized by secret service agents. The agents claimed it was illegal to reproduce currency in any manner. The dollar is six feet by four. It even carries out the color scheme of United States currency. It was the first such seizure ever made at the custom house. Agents said the rug had been made in Greece.

No 'Upstage Royalty' About Prince of Wales, Gotham Agrees

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Prince of Wales started down to Washington today—sound asleep. His royal highness, who was to lunch with President and Mrs. Coolidge and their son John at the White House, went to bed aboard the special train and was sleeping soundly when they passed through the Pennsylvania station and pulled out for Washington at 7:35 p. m. The train was due in Washington about noon.

Secretary of State Hughes was to meet Wales at the union station at the capital where the reception was to be as unofficial as the prince could wish.

Colonel Oscar Solbert and Butler Wright of the state department were the others who accompanied Wales to Washington.

This most personable and impressive young man really likes us. He said so, of course, in his prepared statement, but from one of his close friends the fact was confirmed: it was no hollow formula. The loyalty of the American greeting met a response in the fair-haired smiling eyes of prince, who some day will be king of England.

Strangely enough, it was the skyline of New York that made the most lasting impression of his first 24 hours upon the prince.

"It's wonderful," he exclaimed. "When finally he sat foot ashore, there was a popular welcome and plenty awaiting him. The prince liked it. 'How do you do,' he called, with a wave of his hand."

Nothing of the once popular conception of "upstage royalty" about this young man of the house of Windsor.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Forty-two persons are known to have been injured, several of them probably fatally, when the westbound Detroit and the Lakeshore Limited passenger trains on the New York Central crashed in a rear end collision near Savannah at 1:40 this morning.

Dense fog is believed to have obscured signals and caused the accident. The injured have been taken to Rochester and this city on special relief trains.

PARIS CHERISHES ANCIENT RELICS

Priceless Treasures Include Old Crowns

PARIS.—Of the thousands of visitors to Paris, few know the splendidly decorated Salle d'Apollon. Its glass cases contain perhaps the most precious collection in Europe of treasures of various dates—the coronation insignia of the French Kings, the royal crowns, crystal cases mounted in gold, jewels, a silver and enameled Virgin of most perfect Gothic workmanship, and so forth. It is here, in the Cabinet des Medailles of the National Library that the finest French treasures are preserved. There you may see the precious remnant of the once so fabulously rich treasury of the Abbot of St. Denis; the golden bowl of Sussanah; the crown with its image in enamel in the center and modeled transparent stones set about it a four, and the only cup used by the Queen of France at coronations, doubtless once the property of Roman emperors, from which Nero may have drunk. There, too, is the Great Crown of France, likewise Roman imperial of the great Merovingian and the golden remnants from the tomb of Childeric, and the sixth century chalice and paten of Gourdon. Cluny Museum rejoices in the pre-eminent possession of all but one of the Visigothic gold crowns of Guntar; the other remains at Madrid. At Cluny, also, is the golden altar-piece which the people of Basle foolishly sold.

OLD, MODERN MARTYRDOMS

Rev. Oliphant Explains 'Suffering as Christian'

"If any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in this name." (1 Pet. 4:16). This was the central thought of the sermon last evening in the open air revival at DeQueen Park Church of Christ, being conducted by Evangelist W. L. Oliphant.

"When we read the history of the terrible persecution directed toward Christians during the dark ages," said Mr. Oliphant, "We can realize what Peter meant by 'suffering as a Christian.' Then it meant something to be a Christian. Men were burned at the stake, dragged through the streets of the city until dead, or cast into the arena where they were devoured by wild beasts; simply because they were Christians."

"Polycarp, one of the early church fathers, was a disciple of John the Apostle. After spending more than sixty years in preaching the gospel, he was condemned and sentenced to be burned at the stake. The Roman emperor, as he saw this old man, stooped by years of toil, depart from the court, was touched by the sight, and was made to sympathize with him. He sent a messenger after Polycarp, begging that he retract his statements, deny Christ, and thus save his own life. This Polycarp refused to do. He was conducted to the stake, a fire kindled at his feet, and as the flames enveloped his body, he was heard to cry aloud, 'I am a Christian.' This is a very fitting example of what it means to 'suffer as a Christian.' We are not called upon to suffer in any such way for Christianity. We live in a land of Bible and Constitution, under the greatest government in the world; where no man dares molest us in our service to God. But we are called upon to live the life of a Christian, and thus help to keep this a Christian nation."

There will be no day service today. Service begins Saturday evening at 7:45. Sunday services will be at the usual hours.

Echoing the remarks of Ferguson regarding the resignation of Love, state Senator C. P. Richards declared that "one man has been sidetracked and I am glad that he sidetracked himself before we sidetracked him."

Others greeted Barry Miller, democratic lieutenant governor nominee as he appeared on the platform. He praised Mrs. Ferguson, woman suffrage and denounced the men in a brief address.

Mrs. Ferguson was announced by her husband "as the next governor of Texas." The crowds went into an uproar and the three bands of Temple, Cameron and Granger added to the enthusiasm.

Movie Star's Job Cinch? Not Much, Says Alice Terry

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Every girl knows, through much publicity on the subject, how difficult it is to get into motion pictures. But every girl probably assumes that, once over the barrier, there comes a time when the acclaimed actress is secure, "this pretty" has her own way, is mistress of her professional fate.

For public consumption, and a "save face" for celebrated players, this is "conceded" by producers who pay the salaries.

Actually, with exception of not more than half a dozen famous actors, the star is never more than a high priced employee, subject to as many orders as the rear-rank private of an army.

"Being an actress," says Alice Terry, beautiful wife of Rex Ingram, the director, and a star in her own right, "is not much different from being a stenographer, milliner or bookkeeper."

"The only 'independence' she has is what she claims in a magazine or newspaper interview."

Because of her station, Alice Terry should have special privileges in movies, if anyone has them. She should claim them now when for the first time in years she is playing in a picture not produced by her husband—"The Great Divide," being made by Reginald Barker for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

But, witness her attitude toward her work and its exactions in these fragments of an interview, spoken without complaint, merely a brief recollection of the facts:

"In 'The Great Divide' I'm supposed to be a first class horsewoman. That entitled riding lessons and rigorous practice. Many mornings I've been in the saddle long before most working women are out of bed. I always arise at 6:30, for the early studio call, even though work the night before may have lasted until near midnight."

ALICE TERRY had always lived beyond my means. "Movie queens? They are employees, obeying orders like any other working girls."

ESCAPING A WRECK BY A SNIFF

An engineer of a passenger train so accustomed to the locomotive doesn't get his job in one bound. He comes up to it gradually. He usually begins as a fireman, and most railroads when they select a fireman, look him over very carefully, for they are thinking of him not as a fireman, but as a future engineer. After about seven years as a fireman, he is promoted to the job of engineer on a freight train. It is only after another period of try-out, perhaps another seven years, that the engineer is trusted with the great responsibility of driving a passenger train.

Must Be Trained

The reason for this long training is that the engineer must be so carefully schooled and become so accustomed to the locomotive through the years of practice that he is able to sense danger and act quickly with almost a sixth sense which tells him what to do.

There is the story told of an engineer on a western road who saved his train through the use of his highly developed sense of smell developed as a result of his years on the road.

One foggy night he was driving his train along at his usual high rate of speed and everything was apparently going well. Suddenly, to his fireman's great surprise he slowed down the train, and began creeping ahead cautiously. The fireman could see nothing alarming on the track ahead.

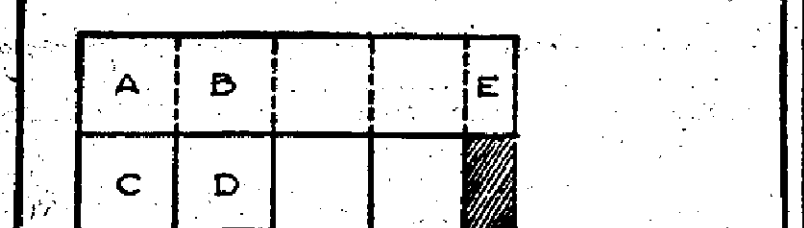

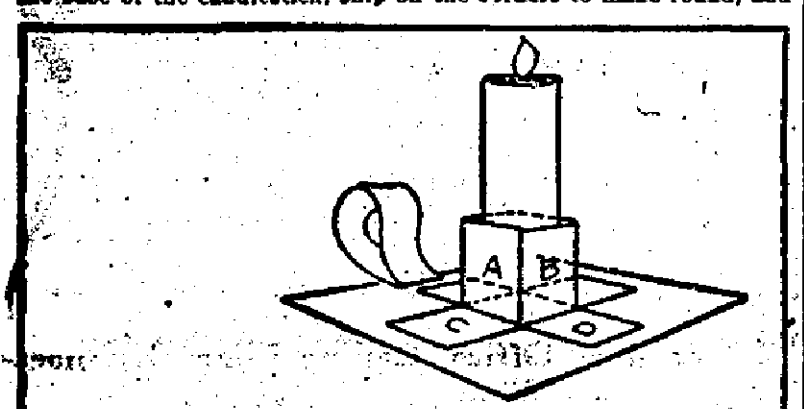

See Caboose Light
Then out of the fog loomed the red tail-light of a caboose. A train ahead was traveling slowly. If they had not stopped just in time they would have run into it and there might have been a serious wreck. The train ahead, as they afterwards discovered, had got its orders mixed and had no business there at all.

"Sense of smell's what saved us," the engineer explained briefly. "I got a sudden faint whiff of engine smoke. I knew it couldn't be from my own engine because the stack is high and the smoke travels straight back, so as soon as I got that whiff I jammed on the brakes. If I hadn't done that, by the time I saw the tail-light it would have been too late to save the train."

HOW TO MAKE A FAVOR CANDLE

An attractive favor for each guest at a party is a candlestick. You can make the base and holder the same color you are featuring in your other decorations, or you can make all of your candles different colors.

Cut two squares of colored paper four inches square. Use one for the base of the candlestick, snip off the corners to make round, and mount it on light-weight cardboard. If desired, leave all the bases square, or vary them by making some square and some round.

Divide the other square in half and use one half for the socket. Rule this off into ten squares, as in the figure, cutting into the vertical lines of the bottom squares. Fold on the dotted lines and paste "A" over "B". Center the holder on the base of the candle stick and paste the ends down securely.

Double the remaining piece of paper lengthwise for the handle and paste it on as shown in the illustration. With a sheet of yellow paper four and one-half inches in depth make a roll for the candle. Place into this some cotton-wool and insert a small piece of red tissue paper for the flame.

HAZEL LOOKS AFTER HER SISTER

"Do look after Stella. If you can possibly keep her on your mind. She's always into everything, you know."

Hazel's mother looked worried as she finished packing the basket for the two girls. "I don't see what you want to let Stella go for," objected their father grumpily. "You know how Hazel is. She's so dreamy and absent-minded you can hardly trust her to take care of herself."

Hazel took it all silently. There was no denying that she was untrustworthy. She remembered with a shudder the time Stella had cut her hand because Hazel wasn't watching her, the time Stella had spilled paint on her hair for the same reason, and Hazel sighed.

All during the picnic Hazel was right on Stella's heels. She watched everything the little sister did.

"Let's take a last swing," called Stella.

"I don't like you to go on those swings," worried Hazel. The swings were great favorites with the boys and girls because there was a thrill of danger in them. They were right on the river bank, and when you swung away out, you went over the water.

"Aw, let her swing, Hazel," some of the girls called, as Stella's lip began to quiver. "Don't be so crabby. Everybody swings in them. They're perfectly safe."

"You'll hold on, won't you?" insisted Hazel, as she put her younger sister in the swing.

"Of course I'll hold on," smiled Stella.

Hazel got in a swing which was right next to her. A couple of people saw them a "run under" at the same time and out they went together.

Three or four times the swings went over the river. Suddenly Hazel heard a scream from some one on the bank. She was at that moment out over the river. "Stella's rope!" they shouted. Hazel turned her head. To her horror she saw the rope on her sister's swing, just above her hand on the right, about to part. It was hanging by a single strand. There was no time to think. The swings were right over the river. With one hand Hazel took a firm hold on the rope of the swing nearest Stella. Then she threw herself toward her surprised little sister and with the other arm grabbed her firmly about the waist, just as the frayed rope parted altogether.

Her one hand was raw with rope burns as the watchers on the bank caught them when the swing came back, but her eyes were shining. "I did—watch her," she grinned, and then to her surprise everything became black.

THE BECOMING HAT FOR EVERY TYPE OF GIRL

Have you bought your fall hat yet? If you haven't, take a look at yourself in the mirror before you go shopping and decide just what type of hat you ought to wear. Maybe you have bought

"just hats" and some looked well on you and some didn't, but you don't know why. Maybe mother selected certain hats which looked right on you, but you didn't understand why her choices were best.

A hat, should, first of all, be made to fit the head. It should fit snugly, so as not to give a "stuck-on" appearance. Paddling a large hat seldom improves it, for if it doesn't fit your head in the first place, the chances are that it would make you look top-heavy.

Polk Shapes Good

A girl with a short nose, inclined to be "pug" must pass by the counter on which the turned up shapes are displayed. Her best choice is the little polk shape with brim that shades her eyes. Just how much a change in the choice of hats improves the girl in the upper left-hand corner of the illustration.

On the other hand, the girl with downward-drooping nose must not wear a turned down brim. The cocky off-the-face shapes are most becoming to her.

A girl with fat cheeks makes herself into an imitation of the full moon when she dons a narrow brimmed bonnet, as did the girl in the lower left-hand corner. When she bought one of the popular wide at the side shapes, with narrow front and back, she improved her looks at once.

Get Full Length View
In buying hats you ought to look at yourself in a full length mirror before finally deciding on a certain hat. The girl wearing the square crowned sailor shape hat thought it looked becoming when she was sitting down, but she forgot that she was short and that sort of crown would give her a very dumpy appearance. A tall, striking looking girl can wear the stiff, square crown, but the short girl must stick to a hat shape with a soft crown that follows closely the shape of her head.

As for hat trimming, the thinfacéd girl should not wear any kind of wing, quill, or dagger ornaments, as these sharpen her features. Soft pompons and ribbons are best to trim her hats, especially if the trimming extends beyond the brim on the sides. For this gives width to her too-slender face.

(Next week there will be an article on the proper clothes for a stout girl.)

TRAINING THE TEMPERA MENTAL CIRCUS ANIMALS

The trained animals are the cheapest actors in the "Big Show," because they don't ask for salaries and expensive costumes, but they're more temperamental than all the rest of the performers in the circus, and that's saying a lot.

The animals all have their peculiar likes and dislikes and their keepers must know these to keep them in good humor. The tigers and lions, for instance, are just as fond of catnip as your own tabby is, and they're like sulky children if they don't get any.

Elephant Likes Coal
The elephant is fond of coal. It's just like rock candy to him. In fact, he must have a certain amount of dirt every day or he doesn't feel well. Elephants frequently suffer from the colic, but that's because of the peanuts people feed them.

Another odd thing about the elephant, which maybe you never noticed, is that his hind legs bend backward instead of forward! And that funny little tail—it isn't such an insignificant thing as it seems, for it has so much strength in it that an elephant can knock a man over with one blow of that little rope-like tail.

Horses Are Hard to Train
When it comes to training elephants, the Asiatic elephant is best as it learns much more quickly than the African type. Elephants are good pupils. In fact, that talk about "horse sense" doesn't mean very much, as horses are really stupid, so trainers say. The elephant is much easier to teach.

How do they go about training these big fellows? Well, it's mostly a question of patience. One trainer, for instance, wanted to teach a slightly "fapper" elephant to sit down at a table and ring the bell for the waiter, a very funny trick. Every day he would push her down in a specially made chair, wrap her trunk around the bell on the table, and shake the trunk and bell up and down. Then he'd give her a lump of sugar which met with a squeal of delight.

Ideas Must "Take"
Day after day he did this. She obeyed very well, but somehow never got the idea herself. Her trainer was discouraged. Then one day he led her to the table and stopped a few minutes to do something else. The lady elephant grew impatient. Suddenly she stopped down in the chair and seized the bell and shook it for her lump of sugar. The idea had finally "taken."

Elephants are taught to stand on their heads and perform other balancing tricks by the use of harnesses and pulleys. They are strapped in position and held up—and it needs a regular derrick to do it—day after day, until they finally catch onto how to do it themselves.

Cats Are Not Tractable
The "cat" animal is a different proposition. While the elephant is a gentle beast, striving to please, the big cats never get to like the idea of captivity. You wouldn't expect it, but the lion though called the "king of beasts" is much easier to train than the tiger. He is lazier and less inclined to be quarrelsome. A tiger can always beat him in a fight.

Worst of all the "cats" is the black leopard. Whenever you see one of these going through tricks in the circus you may be sure that its trainer is an exceedingly clever animal trainer, also that there is a very good reason for the man standing close to the cage with a revolver in his hand. (Maybe you can't see it, but it's there, just the same.) The black leopard is always waiting for a chance to "get" his master.

Use Resin On Horses
One more thing about the circus animals that most people don't know—why the trick horses that the barback riders use are white. Maybe you thought it was just for looks, but it isn't. The performer likes to put powdered resin on the horse's back, as this keeps him from slipping when he's standing up on his steed. And the resin doesn't show up on a white horse.

kind of wing, quill, or dagger ornaments, as these sharpen her features. Soft pompons and ribbons are best to trim her hats, especially if the trimming extends beyond the brim on the sides. For this gives width to her too-slender face.

Are Other Centers

There are two secondary "cloud centers" in the east. On the southeastern shore of Lake Ontario and in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, between Lakes Superior and Michigan, three-quarters of the days in a year are either cloudy or partly cloudy.

Sunshine and clouds, each have a dollars and cents value. In the sunshine region the "50 per cent. sunshine" slogan sells that part of the country to thousands of tourists and health seekers.

SUNSHINE AND CLOUD CENTERS

Do you live in a "sunshine center" or a "cloud zone"? Did you know that certain parts of North America are very definitely marked as regions of sunshine, while other parts are known as areas of cloud?

While most of the wealth and population centers lie east of the Mississippi, the country's "sunshine center" is situated in the extreme southwest, near the mouth of the Colorado river. Yuma, Arizona, furnishes the dot on the map of which to place a compass and draw the circle into which the sunbeams pour almost ceaselessly during daylight hours. Only 18 days in the average year can be called cloudy ones in Yuma and in a roughly circular area about a hundred miles from the city in every direction.

Considering the length of the days as well as their number, the region around Yuma and embracing the southwestern third of Arizona gets 85 per cent of all the sunbeams aimed at it during the year, while 50 per cent of all the sunbeams that could be received hits the mark in the southeastern end of California, practically the whole of Arizona, southwestern New Mexico and the little sharp westernmost point of Texas around El Paso.

The "cloud center" of the United States is also in the far west. It is located in a little region in western Washington near the southernmost indentation of Puget Sound. Half the days there are cloudy and an additional 30 per cent are partially cloudy. About this center is a large area of only slightly less marked cloudiness.

Are Other Centers
There are two secondary "cloud centers" in the east. On the southeastern shore of Lake Ontario and in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, between Lakes Superior and Michigan, three-quarters of the days in a year are either cloudy or partly cloudy.

Sunshine and clouds, each have a dollars and cents value. In the sunshine region the "50 per cent. sunshine" slogan sells that part of the country to thousands of tourists and health seekers.

JIMMY HAS BEEN THINKING FOR AN HOUR AND HAS ONLY ONE BITE. WHAT KIND IS IT?

THE SENSITIVE GORILLA

George Gorilla was about the size of a small barn, his great, swinging arms hung to the floor, and his jaw looked like a stone crusher, but for all that he was very sensitive and tender-hearted.

He used to sit in his cage in the big zoo and watch the people go by. A wistful look in his deepest eyes. They often stopped in front of his cage to look at him, but they never came very near. They held back in a way that hurt George's feelings. He would have liked to invite them in, to play with them.

His keeper was a surly old fellow who never showed any affection for George at all. He showed him his meals as though he hated to do it. He simply refused to make friends, no matter how nice and friendly George tried to be.

Cooking Up Something Pretty Good

The Editorial Mind

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorials

THE SPAN OF LIFE

The span of life at best is very brief. At most it includes but seventy or eighty years of activity. As the pessimist said, "The days of man are three score years and ten, yet if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is it labor and sorrow."

It is characteristic of men that they live as though they were eternal. They plan institutions as though they would exist forever and tend themselves, faithfully, a span of life which they artificially create.

Yet, after all, the difference between the mortal and the immortal who die new-born is not great. About all that can be done here is to set our house in order, if there be anything for which to set it in order and, if there be no future life, the most of us will be disappointed.

The other day Mr. Alvin August Adee died at the age of eighty-three, the oldest American diplomat.

And yet those who approach this age feel more and more, the rapidly with which time elapses. In youth, time seems to be eternal and the motto of youth is that tomorrow "will be as this day and much more abundant."

But, as we increase in age and feel the years slipping from us, there is borne in upon us a sense of the frailty and uncertainty of our days.

We are made to feel, more and more, the brevity of life.

The continuity of the human race depends very largely upon custom and the hold of tradition. If one were to come back to France, for instance, after being away for a hundred years, he would not find the same people at all yet they would be Frenchmen.

Everyone has felt, at some time or other, how strange it is that of all the people he sees about him in one hundred years not one will continue yet the earth will be as full as ever.

It is the human race that goes on from year to year and not the individual life. One by one we drop out yet the race continues.

It is the genius in which Nature seems to be most interested. While she is careless of the single instance, she is only careful of the type. What happens to the single soul we do not know, but there is persistent belief in its continuance in another life. But what happens to the race we do not know. Barring untoward accidents it will go on forever.

In our thinking we identify ourselves with the age of Jesus and of Julius Caesar, forgetting that the people of that time have long ago disappeared and that the present is a new group.

But the disappearance of the individuals has been so gradual, and there has been such a lapping over of one generation to the next, that we retain our consciousness of the integrity of humanity.

In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Atlantic City, vacation resort of the nation, is suffering the worst business depression in 31 years, while New York is enjoying an excellent summer boom.

New York, although never logically considered as a summer resort, always draws enormous crowds of sightseers during the vacation season. People who in these months have come to "see New York or bust" take their yearly two weeks fun period to see the sights of a great town.

But in New York their presence is scarcely noted. They stop at the more popular transient and side street hotels, admiring they would rather spend their money doing things than spending all of it for hotel accommodations.

Yesterday I talked to four Indiana girls making their first trip to New York. In the winter they are employed at school teachers. They were pathetically disappointed in the city. The first picture they saw of the city was a photograph of the Empire State building. They did not have time to see anything else.

Thus many people make a summer vacation trip to New York and return home to brood over the city in no uncertain terms. Probably it is just as well.

I know on my first trip here, I decided it was the world's worst failure and that not one line of its advertised charms was a reality.

But now I have changed my mind. I like it better than any city in the land, excepting Lafayette, Ind., where I was born.

The prices for horseboating and "padding" will be increased 25 per cent. This won't affect many people.

POLITICAL SIGNS OF THE TIMES IN UNITED STATES

John W. Davis is the pace maker of all the presidential candidates. Everywhere he goes he starts something. He visited New Jersey and 500 of the representative men and women of the party headed by Governor George Silzer pledged him the electoral vote of his state. To quote from the vocabulary of a western democrat John W. set-em-afire.

William C. Redfield of New York, who was secretary of commerce in Woodrow Wilson's administration has made the prediction that John W. Davis will become stronger and stand out as a leader in contrast to President Coolidge as the campaign progresses. Mr. Redfield is confident that conditions everywhere augurs well for the election of the democratic standard bearer.

Gen. Chas. G. Dawes says this is an unusually favorable year for coming down to brass tacks in politics, and democratic campaigners say that John W. Davis has planted some sharp tacks where President Coolidge will feel them unless he steps lightly.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, progressive candidate for vice president, finds great apathy throughout New England toward the democratic presidential ticket while Manager Thos. J. Spelacy finds the democratic hosts organizing as they have never been organized before in the New England commonwealth.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, democrat, has commended the action of the North Carolina senate in rejecting the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution. Senator Fletcher says the North Carolina legislature has enacted laws so as to make it impossible for any one under fourteen years of age to engage in gainful occupation. Now why should Senator Fletcher speak for North Carolina.

Arkansas lawmakers ratified the child labor amendment; Georgia lawmakers defeated ratification of the child labor amendment; North Carolina lawmakers defeated ratification; why should the democrats of these states be in a hurry to smash the child labor amendment. In the southern states east of the Mississippi river little children work sixty hours a week; in New England and northern states they work forty-eight hours. What is the answer.

Judge Felix D. Robertson is a sportsman. This was his message to Mrs. Ferguson: "I sincerely congratulate you on your victory." Mrs. Ferguson is a sportsman. This was her answer to the vanquished: "I appreciate your message of congratulations and trust that you will soon recover from your arduous campaign which you have just passed through." Wm. Gibbs McAdoo laid off three days before he wired congratulations to John W. Davis and eight years ago Col. Thos H. Ball never did wire congratulations to Jas. E. Ferguson.

New York labor leaders, that is the group of labor leaders supporting LaFollette and Wheeler have appealed to Gov. Al Smith to become a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket and give the people of New York another two years as their chief executive. These labor leaders, if he accepts the democratic nomination, pledge Smith their united support and in addition to this they have urged union men to keep away from the so-called labor convention in New York called for the purpose of placing in the field candidates for state office.

Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee insists that Democrats have a double-barrelled chance to elect a democratic president. That is they can elect John W. Davis by his receiving a majority of the electoral college; they also have another chance in being able to keep Coolidge from getting a majority of the electoral college and thus throwing the election in the house of representatives. In the first case Mr. Davis would be president; in the second case Mr. Bryan would be president.

If New York and New Jersey are carried by the democrats it is as certain as night follows day that John W. Davis will be elected president. These two states are controlled by the democrats. They hold all their offices. They have magnificent state organizations. John W. Davis in his recent speeches captured the imagination of the democratic and independent voters of New York and New Jersey. Calvin Coolidge will not be a three to one proposition in late September.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette in his letter accepting the endorsement of the American Federation of Labor welcomed the support of the workers and predicted victory in the end. In the end will not be in November this year. Unless all the surface signs are misleading Calvin Coolidge or John W. Davis will win the prize in November, and it may be a landslide one way or the other.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana has another grievance against John W. Davis. He says that Davis was president of the American Bar Association in 1922 and did not participate in an investigation of the department of justice while Harry M. Daugherty was attorney general. Senator Robert M. LaFollette did not participate. Senator LaFollette is a lawyer and what of the democratic senators as well as the republicans who voted to confirm the nomination of Daugherty in 1921.

A fight for the LaFollette and Wheeler third party ticket will be made in every section of the south including Texas. This is the program announced by Robert M. LaFollette Jr., the personal campaign manager of the Wisconsin Senator. He says there will be nothing sectional about the campaign and the same fight will be made in the south and northwest as that to be made in New England, New York, New Jersey and the middle west and the far west. Furthermore the Progressives are going to stick to the concrete economic issues which affect every citizen in his or her daily life. There is one LaFollette plank that is rich bait for organized labor. It is the plank that demands the abolition of the writ of injunction in labor disputes.

A LISTED STOCK IS NOT NECESSARILY SAFE

LISTING MEANS GIVING A UNIVERSAL MARKET TO THE STOCK OF A LEGITIMATE ENTERPRISE

What does "listing" on the New York Stock Exchange mean to the public and to the stock so listed?

When a stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange it means that it will be given a national and international market and this is the principal reason why listing is desirable.

The listing committee of the stock exchange does not attempt to judge the value of the security before admitting it to a listing. The main points considered in listing are, does the stock represent a legitimate enterprise, is there a proper distribution of the shares giving the stock a free market?

Almost every line of business is represented in the various listings of the exchange and more will be added from time to time. Last year the common stocks of forty-two new companies was listed for trading in the New York market.

The investor should keep in mind, however, that listing does not mean anything to him so far as safety is concerned and every listed stock must be judged on its own merits, with the advice of skilled financial men.

The NERVOUS WRECK by E. J. Rath

MEIN NERN TODAY

The "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric, tripping character, is driving madly from the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the "Wreck" takes the gallons from a passing car.

Later Charlie McSwen, foreman of a ranch along the way, hires the Wreck's car and forces Sally to act as cook. Then they discover that Mr. Underwood, the owner of the ranch, was in the car which they held up. Sheriff Bob Wells, who is Sally's fiancé, is unwittingly searching the countryside for the "bandit" who held up Underwood. Charlie Underwood and identifies it as being the one owned by the bandit who held them up. McSwen denies knowing the man who was to be on the ranch, but in secret asks the Wreck for an explanation. The "Wreck" is telling the story of the hold-up.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Suppose," continued the Wreck, as he glared through his spectacles, "that you happened to be stranded with your wife out in the middle of a country that's so big there isn't any sense to it. Suppose you didn't have a drop of gas. Suppose somebody came along who had plenty of gas, and you offered in a decent manner to pay for a few gallons if they'd let you have it. And suppose a big hog sat back in his seat and gave you the laugh and told you to get busy and push your car out of his way, so he could drive on. And suppose you had to have that gas or stay there until God knows when. Hey?"

His voice had shifted itself to an edge and he was making gestures with both arms.

"All right," I'm supposed," said Charlie.

"Well, what would you do?" "Speakin' hypothetical, you mean?" "Speaking any way you like," barked the Wreck.

Charlie rubbed his chin and appeared to consider the problem. "I reckon," he drawled, "I'd try to get me some gas."

"The Wreck," holding an arm to indicate that all doubts were resolved, "That's all there was to it," he said.

"Mind, now," said Charlie, cautiously, "I'm not sayin' that I'd drive to committin' unlawful acts. Gettin' gasoline, you might say, is meetin' one of the demands of nature, and I reckon it can be justified by powerful arguments. But when it comes to takin' people's watches and jewelry—"

"They lied!" interrupted the Wreck. "I'm only repeatin' what was told the sheriff."

"I guess we're showin' all hands on the mill," mused Charlie. "It's gettin' tired of all this talkin'," said the Wreck, sliding off the table. "I can stop it in three minutes."

He was headed for the door when Sally detained him with a firm hand. "Hens, are you crazy?" "I'm sore."

"You stay right here. I don't care whether you're sore or not. You're not going near Mr. Underwood."

"Why doesn't he stick to the truth, then?" "I haven't the least idea. I don't particularly care. But you keep away from him."

The Wreck shook himself loose from her grip and went back to the table. Charlie McSwen nodded his approval.

"There ain't any occasion to get excited," he said. "You might go up there and tell him he's a liar and just him in the eye. But the wouldn't be no compensation for sittin' in jail over at the county seat waitin' for 'em to give you the rest of your natural life."

"I'm not going to stay here for the rest of my natural life," growled the Wreck.

"The ain't any need," "How long are you figurin' on?" "I figure I'm goin' to need you and Miss Williams so long as the boss and his family are here."

"How long is that?" Charlie seemed to be calculating. "Not more'n a month, it ain't likely."

Sally gasped. "A month?" she cried. "Why, we won't dream of it!" "I'm sure sorry, ma'am. But he's most always stayin' a month."

"We're clayed longer now than we had any business to."

"We're all creatures in the gullin' hands of Providence," observed Charlie. "A month ain't much in the line of young folks."

Sally was showing plain signals of alarm. She felt to clapping and unclapping her hands and wailing and howling and she began walking to and fro.

"I won't do it!" she exclaimed. "A month! Not another day, if I can help it. You haven't any business to keep us here. Do you think I'm going to stay here and be turned into a slave, cooking your meals and doing the kitchen work for a lot of able-bodied men who are too lazy to help themselves? Yes, and doing the housework, too. I won't stand for it!"

Charlie looked interested, and so did the Wreck.

"Just because I've been good-natured about it," stormed Sally, "is no reason why I'm going to let anybody rub it in. I don't care what happens. I'm through! I'm going to find out—"

The Wreck was patting her on the arm. "Sally, now," he said. "Go easy. She flung his hand aside and turned on him with a look of amazement.

"Henry Williams, are you a norn?" "That's all right," as said in a voice that tried to be soothing. "You're not going to go running yourself into trouble."

Gate To Be Divided On 60-40 Basis

PORT ARTHUR'S "Little World's Serious" is to come to life after all.

Despite many hems and haws by Managers Harry Coughlin and Cliff Gunn the Athletics and the Elks will meet on Lakeshore in a three-game "crusade" series, September 14, 21, and 28 to be the dates. This was announced yesterday, although there was a trifle of doubt. The two managers stood on the coffee club's corner for an hour the other night discussing the pros and cons of the Athletics-Elks series.

"We're not scared of them—we'll play 'em any old time, but I'm not going to cancel any of my games to play," said Gunn. "And you can put it in the paper we'll just as soon play 'em all or nothing, and take the risk, too."

Home Talent Only

"Neither team will play if they see they can't make 15 cents out of it," said Coughlin. "But we'll play, and beat the Elks, too, if I know anything about it." Some of the Athletics yesterday threatened to mob their manager if he failed to go through now with the plan for the "serious."

Home talent exclusively will be used, it was announced yesterday, this meaning neither team is to use any player not used before during the season. The gate will be divided on a 60-40 basis after each game, expense of the balls and umpires to be divided.

The series could not be started this Sunday or next Sunday because the Elks play the Dixie Flyers tomorrow and have a date with Orange on the following Sunday. The Elks have a scheduled game with Houston on September 14 and the Athletics play Pinedale on the same day. Whether these games will be cancelled is not known. The Athletics are trying to get a game with Sulphur for September 7, but Sulphur says its team is disbanding after Monday.

Orange is slated to play Sulphur's nice tomorrow.

Cuyler, Yde and Wright Supply Youthful Fight That May Force Giants to Bow Before Pittsburg

By BILLY EVANS

Look out for the Pittsburg Pirates. Five recently have transformed the club into a tenant contender. Manager Bill McKechnie may not win the National League bunting with his Buccaneers, but he is going to make the race decidedly interesting.

At present the New York Giants are groggy. The recent four defeats at the hands of Pittsburg is the cause.

In the spring, prior to the opening of the season, in doping out the chances of the National League clubs, it leaned strongly to the Pirates. I picked Pittsburg as the one team with a great chance to make trouble for the Giants.

During the first two months of the race the Pirates made me feel as if I didn't know a single thing about baseball. When the pitchers worked well the batters didn't hit, and vice versa. The club lacked consistency, simply couldn't win with regularity.

Perhaps too late, the Pirates have struck their gait, are playing the fine ball the team is capable of, and pressing New York hard, despite the big lead gained by the Giants while Pittsburg was floundering about.

Five Clasy Recruits

In the fine showing of the Pittsburg club the work of five recruits stands out prominently. Usually a club is fortunate enough to have a couple of recruits develop into regulars it is satisfied. Five recruits, Wright, Cuyler, Yde, Moore and Kremer, have delivered for the Pirates.

While the great hitting of Outfielder Cuyler, the fine work of Moore when substituting for Traynor at third, and the excellent pitching of Yde and Kremer have helped greatly, the acquisition of Shortstop Wright has done much to make the Pirates a strong permanent possibility.

Seldom a club, lacking a brilliant shortstop, won a pennant. A fast-working one around second base is most essential to success. Wright has made good the fine things said about his fielding ability. He has exceeded expectations, the best many of his biggest boosters had a fear for his hitting.

Wright supplanted Maranville at short. What to do with Maranville was a problem. He was shifted to second base and has fitted in perfectly. No doubt Wright is a proofed really from having so able a base.

Moore Stars as Sub

While Moore hasn't enjoyed as strong a spotlight as the other four rookies, his work has been no less meritorious.

When substituting for Third Baseman "Pie" Traynor, Moore played great ball and hit a Rogers Hornsby.

In 35 games played he has an average close to .300, the unexpected and nose out the Giants, the major portion of the credit for the win must go to the five rookies, Wright, Cuyler, Yde, Moore and Kremer.

While the veteran stars of the club have performed nobly, it must be conceded the new men have added the strength that has made the Pirates a potential winner.

Washington Plays 20 Out of 25 Games On Road

TIGERS, BROWNS PLAY AT HOME

Detroit Has 12 Games With White Sox

The American league pennant race has narrowed down to four clubs, New York and Washington in the east, Detroit and St. Louis in the west.

The month of September can be considered the home stretch of the long six months campaign. The showing made in September will determine the pennant winner.

New York and Washington finish on the road, September 7 completes the home schedule of each club. From then on it is a battle on foreign fields for the Yankees and Nationals.

Playing away from home is no longer the great handicap that it once was. As a matter of fact, certain clubs play better abroad than at home.

Here is the situation that the four contenders face during September, the home stretch of the American league derby.

Washington plays 25 games, five at home, 20 abroad.

Twelve of these games are against the west, while 13 are with the east, seven with Boston and six with Philadelphia. The Athletics and Boston are now playing tight baseball.

New York plays 23 games, eight at home and 15 abroad.

Twelve games are played with the west, while Philadelphia is met in seven games and Boston nine.

Detroit plays 26 games, 17 at home and nine on the road.

The Tigers play 12 of these games with the Chicago White Sox, always a troublesome club for the Cobblers. St. Louis has the most advantageous schedule for September of any of the contenders.

The Browns play 25 games, 20 at home and only five on the road. Ten games are with the Cleveland Indians.

It is a rather interesting fact that during the month of September no games will be played between the eastern contenders, New York and Washington, or the western leaders, Detroit and St. Louis.

New York and Washington had completed the 1934 schedule between the two clubs prior to September, as had St. Louis and Detroit.

If there is any great advantage in being at home while coming down the stretch, that margin is with Detroit and St. Louis, particularly the latter.

It seems as if rival clubs always take a keen delight in knocking off the champion, for that reason the New York club can expect the sternest opposition everywhere.

It would occasion no great surprise if all four contenders stayed in the race until the final week of play. Indeed it is very possible that the winner will not be determined until the last day.

That was the situation in the American league in 1908. If Chicago beat Detroit it meant the pennant. Loss of the game dropped the White Sox to third.

Pitching, plus the club that gets the best managerial ride, are going to be the two big factors.

Walter Johnson's Thumb Okay Within Few Days

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—With two games in the bag and a lead of a game and a half over the New York Yankees, the dashing Washington Senators were resolved today to bowl over the champions again today and clinch the series.

Walter Johnson probably will be asked to go in and stop the rush of the Senators while Manager Buckey Harris, the young Washington pilot, will send either Zahniser or Ogden for the third game.

Walter Johnson who had to retire in yesterday's game after he was hit on the pitching hand by a drive from Wally Schang's bat was not seriously injured. The thumb on his right hand was bruised but it was said this morning that it was only a minor injury and that the star pitcher would not be out of the game for more than a few days.

The Senators have been favorites in the series with the Yankees as they have played the best brand of baseball seen in the big stadium this year.

New York baseball writers are willing now to admit that the Senators are almost favorites to win the pennant.

NEW YORK—Frankie Genaro, American flycatcher champion, has been offered $50,000 to meet the winner of the European championship if he wins the world's title from Pancho Villa.

BOSTON.—Quinto Romero, Chican heavy-weight champion, knocked out Jack Sharkey, former may champion, with a right to the jaw in the eighth round. Sharkey was down when the eighth round ended and fell on his face when he tried to come out for the ninth.

MINNESOTA CONFERENCE Competition will be without the services of many famous football stars this season, notably Kipke, Michigan; Workman, Ohio State; Martinson, Minnesota; Below, Wisconsin; and Prott, Chicago.

CASE OFF SCHEDULE For the first time in about a quarter of a century the Case School of Cleveland does not appear on the Michigan football schedule. For years the Cleveland school has annually had the honor of opening the Maize and Blue campaign.

Another Day In the Majors

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Goslin

Goslin, Washington, outfielder, hit a homer and scored three himself, beating the Yankees almost loss-handed for the second time at 5 to 1.

Ed Brown's single in the eighth inning drove in two runs and helped the Robins come from behind and beat the Giants 8 to 1. Vance won his 23rd game of the season, his eleventh in a row and ran his total strike outs up to 202 beating his 1923 record.

Two base hits by Morrison and Carey in the ninth inning scored the runs that gave the Pirates a 5 to 4 victory over the Reds.

With three on and only one out in the ninth inning the Browns beat the Tigers 7 to 6 in the second game after Detroit had been downed 3 to 0 in the first.

Myatt's single in the tenth inning after Speaker had been passed and a sacrifice hit pushed over the run that gave the Indians a 5 to 4 victory over the White Sox.

Seven extra base hits and five singles gave the Braves a 6 to 4 victory over the Phils.

Behind Rhumke's effective pitching the Red Sox won their third straight game from the Athletics 5 to 1.

After getting a single the first time up, Rogers Hornsby had to retire with a wrenched neck but the Cardinals beat the Cubs 12 to 5 without him.

ORANGE TALENT WITH VISITORS

Same Team Defeated A's Two Weeks Ago

Two fast ball games are promised for Sunday and Monday when Manager Cliff Gunn brings the fast Dixie Flyers from Beaumont to town with a nine composed of the best amateur talent in Beaumont and several players from Orange as well. The Beaumont club is the one that trimmed the Port Arthur Athletics about two weeks ago.

Williamson very likely will be seen on the mound again Sunday, pitted against one of Gunn's crack pitching staff, which is composed of Leach, Cook, Karnaky and Tommy Morgan. Both the Sunday and Monday games will be started at 3:30.

Not only will these be good games, but they will afford a means of comparing the two Port Arthur ball clubs—the Athletics and the Elks. The Athletics were beaten by the Flyers, and the next two days will tell what the Elks can do with the same club.

Gunn's line-up will be as follows: Catcher, Vance; pitchers, Leach, Cook, Karnaky, T. Morgan; first base, Davis; second base, Romero; shortstop, Iglesias; third base, Smith; outfield, Trauth, Fairbright, Cooley, utility, Black.

Wife Spanked To Give Her Sense 'Has Decree

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(By Associated Press.)—Mrs. Josephine Curran, 30, of Los Angeles, has decreed that her 10-year-old son, Josephine, Jr., shall be spanked by her mother every day until he gets some sense.

Mrs. Curran and her 10-year-old son, Josephine, Jr., came to Judge Sumner's court, told about the spanking and she was granted a divorce.

"He said he was my son," she said, "and spanked me good and hard."

The boy testified he had once seen his father hit his mother with a shoe. Mrs. Curran is said to be well known socially in Memphis.

Win Public Mirrors To Arrange Stray Tresses

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Because women passengers crossing on the ferry between Southampton and the Isle of Wight complain that the wind during the crossing disarranges their hair and makes them unrecognizable on landing, the town council of Yarmouth, Isle of Wight, has decided to place mirrors in suitable places on the landing stage. Members of the council agreed that it was a necessity, but hoped that the women would bring their own combs.

SEASON'S FIND
Hazen Cuyler, fleet Pittsburg outfielder, stacks up as one of the greatest 10 of the present season. The Southern league rookie is making a real name for himself his first year in the big leagues. He recently equaled one of baseball's most unusual feats—that of getting six hits in as many times at bat in a single game. On another occasion he got five out of six.

LAST SPRING DURING training camp season the experts counted the Tigers out of the race because of a supposed weakness at second base. They said the Cobblers didn't have a chance to cop—wouldn't even be in the running. But the Tigers seem to have upset the dope.

EVERS GETS ROOKIE
The White Sox have obtained an understanding to Eddie Collins in Ray Mooreback, brilliant second baseman of the Flint team, Michigan-Ontario league. Mooreback comes well recommended. He is said to be a fair hitter, stellar fielder and one of the fastest men in minor league play. This is his third year in professional baseball.

COOLIDGE AVOIDS KLAN IN SPEECH

Stresses Elemental Virtues Of Industry and Faith

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Coolidge today stressed the country's virtues of industry, faith, and the golden rule before turning to political questions and promises for social and economic evils.

In a speech to the members of the fraternal congress meeting here, he said: "Before we can hope that the times are altogether out of joint, that all our institutions have proved a failure that we must have an entire new order of things, we ought to be certain that we have fully availed ourselves of the advantage of the observance of these simple virtues."

He then turned to experiment with proposed substitutes when they have been exhausted.

Worth Remembering

Do not shelve the cylinder head gasket when replacing the head on an engine. Use hard oil or grease. Shellac burps. So does the grease, but the latter leaves a sort of crust that seals the gasket exceptionally well. Use white lead for water gaskets and hose connections. Do not have the tappet adjusted to normal clearance after grinding in the valves. Let them be free to pound down and get properly seated.

A straight axle drive can be removed from a rim with much less exertion if the motorist will first loose the head of the tire thoroughly before unbolting the rim. If the head is allowed to stick to the rim much difficulty will be encountered.

Jack up the front wheels when lubricating the steering knuckle bolts. This takes the weight of the car off the bearings and means that quicker results are had from the oiling or greasing.

4 YEARS FUGITIVE HELD AT ST. PAUL

ST. PAUL, Aug. 30.—Joe Secuch, a fugitive from justice for four years is under arrest here. Federal officials say he is wanted in Brownsville, Texas, where he was indicted in 1932 on a charge of violating the anti-narcotic law.

Secuch's apartment contained an immense quantity of dope, the agents said.

STRIPED SCARFS

Striped scarfs both in wool and silk are very much in demand for fall and add a colorful note to the most somber costume.

'Hardest' Lose Gallows Nerve Chicago Official Hangman Says

Man Who Will Execute Leopold and Loeb if They Are Given Death Says Nerve Will Fail

CHICAGO, August 30.—"It's very seldom that two men ever are hanged together without one of them squeaking up yellow."

The speaker is a guard at the Cook county jail. True to the hangman's code, he insists his name be not used in connection with talk of executions, but he qualifies to discuss the subject by his record of participation in 34 hangings here in the last 12 years.

Whether Richard A. Loeb and Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., if they are brought to actual capital punishment for the murder of Robert Frank, will maintain their pose of stoical coldness, our hangman refuses to predict. But he will not be surprised if the nerve fails at least one of them.

"They won't feel like making any big speeches, anyhow," he insists.

If the two boys are executed, they will be scheduled to die in the same corner of the county jail and on part of the same scaffold where 32 other men have been hanged since 1878. Before that date, hangings were either public or in the courthouse—now, in jail. Some of the plank of the old jail gallows still are used in the revised and rebuilt, modern, demountable death trap.

In the original gallows the trap was sprung by an intricate series of operations resembling the invention sketch of a comic artist. The hangman pulled a trigger which released a weight, which fell upon a ratchet-chisel, which cut a rope, which allowed the trap to drop at once from under the condemned man's feet.

Now the trigger releases a weight which pulls out the supporting part of the trap. The result is quicker and equally definite. Where two men are to be hanged the same day, they usually are hanged at the same springing of the trap.

"Fear doesn't affect any one class of men whether old or young, stupid or intelligent," says our jail guard.

As a class, though, negroes have walked out and taken their medicine more calmly than white men.

"More than half protest their innocence to the last. A good many talk religion and some sing church songs. They don't usually talk about

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INTEREST
EXCITING REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS
Copyright 1935—NEA Service, Inc.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAYES HAMILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

My dear John: I was very much disappointed to receive your letter, and I cannot tell you how sorry I am that business has detained you for the moment from coming over here. Leslie's father has been fretting a good deal because he has not been able to see you. He seems to feel that he has many things of importance to discuss with you.

I think, John, that my husband has just about come to the conclusion I tried to make him come to before we went abroad. I think he is contemplating very seriously retiring from business. With both his daughters happily and comfortably married, he seems to feel that he has no more need of piling up money for just ourselves.

Of course this retirement has many good and many bad points. As you know, my husband is a self-made man, and I am not sure that having nothing that he must do will prove very welcome to a man of his active temperament. I have noticed too many men who had worked hard all their lives who after shaking off all care of business, became either morose or did not live very long, not to make me somewhat anxious about this step. On the other hand, Joseph has altogether too much to think of now, and he has broken down under it.

I was in hope, dear boy, that you would come over and advise him. I do not know that you know it, John, but your father-in-law takes a great deal of stock in your judgment, and I wish you could see your way clear to come into the business with him. Since Alice has married Karl Whitney, I think my husband is contemplating giving to Leslie a much larger share of his property than that which he gives to our youngest daughter. Probably he will divide the entire estate into three equal parts, after taking out my share, giving one part to Alice, one to you, and one to little John. That division would have my approval, as you know that Karl Whitney is immensely wealthy, and Alice will have no need of anything that we can give her.

I am not trying to say, John, that you need any money. Both my husband and myself have looked with awards $10,000 contract for building dam across Chacon creek on club grounds.

Port Arthur—Six-story building to be constructed at Fifth and Austin streets at approximate cost of $700,000.

Amarillo—L. H. Torpede Company building local factory to be headquarters for glycerin and dynamite supplies for New Mexico, Colorado, Western Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas Panhandle.

East Dallas—Modern apartment house to be erected on Carroll avenue.

Cumby—Modern water system to be installed at cost of $40,000.

Austin—Oil well drilling applications for June numbered 48, a decrease of 25 compared with April.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—Portland, "City of Roses" and narrow streets, has finally come around to one-way traffic. Ma Ferguson Says She's Going To Foxtrot at Own Inaugural

She's Getting in Practice to Strut With Jim, Though She Hasn't Danced in Years

TEMPLE, Texas, Aug. 30.—"Ma" Ferguson is going to foxtrot at her own inaugural ball. She hasn't danced for years. But she is going to take time out from her campaigning just to practice up a bit, so she can trip it off with "Jim" at her big party in the executive mansion at Austin next January.

"Ma" doesn't want to think she is too old-fashioned. She doesn't think the world is going to perdition because the younger set moves faster than her generation did.

"These flappers may be silly," says the woman who most likely will be the Lone Star State's next governor, "but so were we all."

"The whole race of women, from flappers up, is moving fast these days. In a few centuries it is overcoming the handicap of hundreds of generations of repressed women."

"You don't hear any longer: 'Oh, she can't do that. She's just a woman.'"

"Women are accomplishing just as great things as men nowadays. Those who don't are slackers."

"I don't mean to say a woman has to not 'mammoth.' Either a governor, or any other time since we have been married."

"Ma" is an active civic worker, but not a clubwoman. She belongs to the Protestant Episcopal church—and that is all.

Mrs. Ferguson's opponents in the primaries set up the cry that if she was nominated and elected her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, really would be the one who would run the state's affairs.

"Ma" they insisted, was neither by training nor by predilection fitted to be governor. But listen to what she says:

'GENTLEMAN SAILORS' RETURN FROM QUEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—The gray hulls of the Norwalk, two-masted adventure ship, loomed through a golden Gate fog to drop anchor in the harbor, terminating a seven-month quest by twenty "gentleman sailors" who sought the fabulous wealth of the southern seas, and lost. They returned laden with reminiscences, pictures, and impressions of the green, lazy South Sea Islands, but the crew, among them a geologist, a lawyer, a Russian count, and business men with their grizzled whiskers, Capt. Charles Avery, all miss in unison, "We're glad we made the trip, but never, never, again."

Widow, Aged 39 Makes Youth, 20, Her Third

YORK, Aug. 30.—Curran L. Kling, of York, 20, and Mrs. Hattie L. Houston, 39, were married in Lockport, according to a dispatch from that city.

Mrs. Houston is twice a widow, her second husband having died only three weeks ago. She has five children, some of whom also are married. Mr. Kling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kling of Spring Grove.

NO. 21—WEENT AND THE TWINS HAVE A CIRCUS

"We're spending our vacation," said Toby

One day when Weeny, the circus elephant, as trotting along with the Twins on his back, somebody called out, "Hello, Weeny, where are you going?" "Hello, Toby," cried Weeny. "Hello, Prince. Where did you two come from?" "It was Toby, the circus dog, riding on Prince, the black pony, just as he used to do when they were all in the circus." "We're spending our vacation," said Toby. "And we came from home." "Ha, ha, ha! Isn't that funny," laughed Weeny. "We're spending our vacation, too, but it's all we are spending, for we are story broke, if you know what that means." "What?" asked Toby. "It means that we are busted." "What's busted?" asked Toby. "I never knew any French." "Well, busted means that we haven't any money," explained Weeny. "We've been gone more than a month and we haven't got a cent left." "Neither have we," laughed Toby. "Prince and I are as poor as ever we can be. And we have a long way to go before we reach home again." "Suddenly Nick had an idea. 'Can you do any tricks, Toby?' he asked. 'I should say so,' answered Toby. 'That's my last name. You ought to see how many tricks I can do.' 'I can, too!' said Prince. 'I can walk around in a circle without moving my front feet, and bow, and waltz and stand on my hind legs, and jump over things and—' "Why can't we have a circus of our own and make some money?" said Nick. "Then we can have enough money to spend on the rest of our vacation." "That's a very good idea!" said Toby. "A very good idea, indeed!" said Prince. "I'm proud of you, Nick," said Weeny. "A circus it shall be! Where shall we have it?" "Such a lot of planning and fixing as there was then!" They ended by deciding to have the circus right in the woods. Nick made a sign which said, "Greatest Circus on Earth. Come One—Come All! Admission Five Cents." Then he hung it up on a big tree. After that he practiced tumbling somersaults and cartwheels and standing on his head. And his magic shoes helped him to do the most. Nancy practiced all sorts of things, too. Sliding down Weeny's long trunk, and hanging under his body while he walked, and riding on Prince's back standing up, and a dozen other things. And Toby practiced walking on his hind legs, and saying his prayers, and jumping through hoops, and jumping up on the pony's back while he was running. Weeny knew loads of tricks, too, and it promised to be as good a circus as Nick's signs said it was. Pretty soon everything was ready. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

THE VALUE OF INDIA'S TRADE. One reason Prince Henry sent his men down the African coast was that he hoped to find a water route to India. He thought ships might be able to sail around the southern coast of Africa, then east to India and the Indies. That did finally happen, but not sell fine rubies, diamonds and emeralds. From the islands near India came spices of all kinds: nutmeg, pepper, cinnamon, cloves and others. From the orient also came barks, ginger, opium, rhubarb, dates and (also) castor oil. Most of these things reached Eu-until long after the prince died. Now comes the question: "Why were the men of Europe so anxious to be in touch with India?" The answer is that India was the great trading center of the orient. It sold many things which were not raised in Europe, and other things which could not be made so well by the hands of European workmen. Indian calico and Chinese silk—these were two products Europe could not equal. India was also willing to rope through the ports of Venice and Genoa. Sailors from those cities traded with merchants in Constantinople and Alexandria, Egypt. Goods had to be taken across a hard route from India to Egypt and Constantinople. At least part of the way, they were carried across deserts on the backs of camels. Parties of men with loaded camels were often attacked and robbed—especially by bands of Turks. That is why a water route to India was much needed.
